Hymn time

"My Faith Looks Up To Thee"
Ray Palamer (1808-1887)

Today's hymn was written by Ray Palmer, a 22 year old school teacher. Several months after his graduation from Yale University, while still living with the family of the lady who directed the girls' school where he taught, Ray wrote the text for this hymn. He had experienced a very discouraging year in which he battled illness and loneliness. Ray later wrote about this time:

The words for these stanzas were born out of my own soul with very little effort. I recall that I wrote the verses with tender emotion. There was not the slightest thought of writing for another eye, least of all writing a hymn for Christian worship. It is well remembered that when writing the last line, "Oh, bear me safe above, a ransomed soul!" the thought of the whole work of redemption and salvation brought me to a degree of emotion that brought abundant tears.

Two years later, Ray chanced to meet his friend Lowell Mason, a well known name in musical circles during this time. Upon seeing Ray's text, Mason stated, "Palmer, you may live many years and do many good things, but I think you will be best known to posterity as the author of 'My Faith Looks Up To Thee'. Mason composed a melody for the text and published the song in one of his hymnals. From that time on this hymn has had an important place in nearly every hymnal that has been published.

The Lord's Prayer:

Our Father who art in heaven, hallowed be thy name.

Thy kingdom come. Thy will be done on earth, as it is in heaven.

Give us this day our daily bread, and forgive us our debts, as we forgive our debtors. And lead us not into temptation, but deliver us from evil . For thine is the kingdom, and the power, and the glory forever. Amen.

About the Sermon:

We can always expect God to do miracles in our lives.
